County Council

HEALTH AND WELLBEING BOARD ROUND-UP REPORT

1. Purpose of the report

To provide the Board with a round-up of key progress in relation to Health and Wellbeing issues and projects not covered elsewhere on the agenda.

2. Round-Up

The NHS Long Term Plan

The NHS Long Term Plan (LTP) sets out the direction for the NHS over the next five years, describing in broad terms how it will spend the £20.5bn additional funding.

The NHS has identified a new service model intended to lead to integrated services through five practical changes:

- Increasing out of hospital care and dissolve the historic divide between primary and community health services – establishing multidisciplinary teams around primary care networks.
- Redesigning and reducing pressure on emergency hospital services.
- People will have more control over their health and more personalised care when they need it.
- Digital enabled primary and outpatient care will go mainstream across the NHS.
- Local NHS organisations will increasingly focus on population health and local partnerships with local authority funded services through new integrated care systems (ICSs) across the country.

On prevention, the LTP sets out the actions the NHS will take in relation to the top five risk factors for premature death in the renewed NHS prevention programme: smoking, poor diet, high blood pressure, obesity and alcohol and drug misuse. It will also take a “more concerted and systematic” approach to reducing health inequalities, including targeting a higher share of funding to areas with high levels.

NHS England planning guidance 2019-20

NHS England has recently published its planning guidance for the next financial year. Every health economy must produce a system operating plan and will be set a shared financial control total for 19-20.

NHS England has also published its standard contract for consultation. There will be a new requirement for commissioners and providers to contribute towards relevant local system operating plans. A new requirement on community services to ensure services are organised and delivered so they integrate effectively with the configuration of local primary care networks is also referred to.

Review of recent trends in mortality in England

Public Health England's (PHE's) review looks at why long-term improvements in life expectancy have slowed since 2011, following decades of continued increases. Also, those in the poorest areas have seen less improvement in life expectancy than those in the wealthiest, and for women in the most deprived communities, life expectancy has decreased. It is too early to tell if this trend will continue. A similar slowdown is seen in comparable European countries, but the UK countries lag behind, particularly the life expectancy of women.

NHS Capital funding

HSJ reports on the outcomes of bids to NHS England for capital funding for transformation schemes. Out of the £963m package, £585m went to the acute sector, £213 to mental health and £97m to primary and community care. Eight STPs, including two with integrated care system status (South Yorkshire and Bassetlaw & Gloucestershire) received no funding from this tranche of funding.

EU Exit operational readiness guidance

This DHSC guidance requires NHS organisations to nominate a senior responsible officer – a board member – for Brexit preparation as soon as possible. Organisations are expected to do risk assessments and continuity plans, particularly related to staffing issues related to impact on EU staff. The guidance reiterates that medicines will be stockpiled nationally, and local organisations must not do this. NHS England and Improvement have assigned 200 staff to work on Brexit readiness, and the DHSC has established an operational response centre to help in the event of disruption.

NHS productivity

NHS England has highlighted statistics showing NHS productivity for the financial year ending 2017 grew by 3% in England, more than treble the 0.8% achieved across wider the UK economy in 2016/17. Labour productivity, UK: July to September 2018 statistics, published by the Office of National Statistics, show output per hour, output per job and output per worker for the whole economy and a range of industries.

NHS England encourages CCG mergers

NHS England has written to CCGs, encouraging them to work collaboratively and stating that it will reduce administrative budgets by 20 per cent – £320m over the next 16 months. The money will be reinvested in patient care and transformation. NHS England will particularly support mergers to create a single CCG area within a single integrated care system. It will also consider mergers throughout the year rather than just annually.

Integrated oversight framework and new CCG metrics

NHS England and Improvement are developing metrics to measure local health systems (ICSs and STPs) against the ambitions in the LTP, particularly health outcomes. This will include a set of principles to ensure regulators speak with one voice (a common criticism of the regulators is that they give mixed messages). They also intend to work with STP and ICS leaders to tackle problems in individual organisations rather than making “uncoordinated national interventions”. This is intended to stimulate further growth of “self-governing systems”.

One-off funding for Healthwatch

NHS England and NHS Improvement are to provide funding to Healthwatch England to run patient and public engagement through their networks on the long term plan. A national consultation is likely to begin in January 2019 with detailed plans for the next financial year by April 2019 and five-year plans by the summer. This one-off funding will not solve the overall funding problem reported by Healthwatch England.

Immigration White Paper

The Government’s Immigration White Paper identifies nurses, midwives, health and care services managers and health professionals as among 49 medium and high skilled groups which could potentially see a 25 per cent reduction in EU workers. The UK is heavily reliant on long term EU migrant labour in health and care and could find it hard to make adjustments, although the paper states there will be more opportunities elsewhere.

Clean air strategy

The government has published ‘Clean air strategy 2019’. This strategy sets out the government’s plans for dealing with all sources of air pollution, making air healthier to breathe, protecting nature and boosting the economy. It sets out how the government will protect the nation's health; protect the environment; secure clean growth and innovation; reduce emissions from transport, homes, farming and industry; and monitor progress.

Cardiovascular disease prevention

PHE has published 'Cardiovascular disease prevention: applying All Our Health'. This guidance will help front-line health and care staff to prevent heart attacks, strokes and dementia and to improve cardiovascular health. It also recommends actions that managers and staff holding strategic roles can take.

Measles and rubella elimination strategy

PHE has published 'Measles and rubella elimination UK Strategy 2019'. This report explains the UK's strategy towards measles and rubella elimination. It focuses on four core components: achieve and sustain $\geq 95\%$ coverage in the routine childhood programme; achieve $\geq 95\%$ coverage with 2 doses of MMR vaccine in older age cohorts through opportunistic and targeted catch-up; strengthen measles and rubella surveillance; and ensure easy access to high-quality, evidence-based information.

First assessment of the food industry's progress towards government salt targets

PHE's first assessment of voluntary salt reductions by the food industry shows a mixed picture with some success but more to do. Just over half of all average salt reduction targets were met, with retailers making more progress than manufacturers

Flu vaccination

The Department of Health and Social Care has published 'Flu vaccination in England: government response to the Science and Technology Committee report'. This Command paper sets out the government's response to the Science and Technology Committee's ninth report into flu vaccinations of session 2017 to 2019, published by the House of Commons in October 2018.

Mental health services for children and young people

The Public Accounts Committee has published 'Mental health services for children and young people'. This report examines mental health services for children and young people and finds most young people with a mental health condition do not get the treatment they need. It says government should step up action to increase staff numbers and develop required skills and cross-departmental planning must improve, with focus on prevention and early intervention.

Smoking ban proposal for social housing

A report by two All Party Parliamentary Groups and charity Action on Smoking and Health has suggested that new social housing developments could be designated as smoke-free buildings, with tenants supported to quit. The report found that smoking is now “highly concentrated” on council estates.

‘Prevention is better than cure: our vision to help you live well for longer’

This Department of Health and Social Care document launched by the Secretary of State explains why prevention matters, and makes the case for change. It describes the government’s vision for prevention – people taking personal responsibility but also tackling wider determinants. The NHS and local government are asked to put prevention at the heart of everything they do. The third section sets out what the health and social care system should do to intervene earlier and support the whole person with support networks and giving people control.

The Carers’ Covenant

The think-tank Demos has published a report calling for a radical overhaul of current policy for carers, including an increase in Carers Allowance. It points to a 35 per cent increase in carers since 2011 – now eight million.

Modernising the Mental Health Act – final report from the independent review

The review of the Mental Health Act 1983 was commissioned by the Prime Minister in 2017. It has made 150 recommendations for change including: NHS England to take over commissioning of health services in police custody. The DHSC has said it will accept two recommendations immediately – allowing people to nominate a person of their choice to be involved in their care decisions, and introducing advanced choice documents for patients to express their preferences for future care. It will respond to the other recommendations in 2019.

The women’s mental health taskforce: final report

The taskforce was formed in response to the rise of women with mental health problems. It explores how women’s experience in mental health can be different to men’s and indicates that there is a bias towards men’s needs in service design. It identifies service redesign and strategic priorities for commissioners and providers to implement, based on what matters to women: taking into account gender violence, eating disorders and related conditions, the role of women as mothers and carers, and women’s multiple needs.

Older people living alone

Research by the Health Foundation found that people aged 65 and older who live alone are 50 per cent more likely to go to A&E than people who live with someone else. They are also at increased risk of being admitted to hospital as an inpatient and make more visits to their GP. More than one in four older people living alone have a mental health condition compared to one in five living with others. Social isolation can raise the risk of having a stroke by a third and is considered as unhealthy as smoking 15 cigarettes a day. The research suggests that tackling factors that impact on people living on their own, such as loneliness and social isolation, have the potential to reduce pressure on A&E and GP services.
