THE 24-HOUR CLOCK

is used throughout this book to avoid confusion between am and pm times. For example, 2.15pm is shown 1415, while 2225 means 10.25pm. Morning times are straightforward.

To keep the guide as simple and clear as possible, only the main stations on each line are shown, and some information is given only in summary form.

Timetables are subject to alteration especially during Bank Holidays, and at weekends when engineering work may affect train services. Further detailed information is available from Rail Travel Centres.

These timetables are compiled from information supplied by the train operators, and whilst every care is taken in the production of this book, the publishers can accept no responsibility or liability for any loss or delay resulting from any inaccuracies or alterations to services.
